New gold refinery opens

• Vice-President demands responsible gold sourcing

By Chris Nunoo

THE first gold refinery in which the state holds a stake has been commissioned to facilitate a new vision of adding value to a significant portion of the country's gold.

With capacity to refine 400 kilogrammes of dore gold (raw gold) per day or 132 tonnes of 24 carat, 99.99 per cent pure gold annually, the Royal Ghana Gold Refinery (RGGR) can process the entire volume of the gold exported from Ghana within 300 working days and process others from neighbouring countries.

It is a public, private partnership (PPP) between the Bank of Ghana, which took over

Scale up skills training for youth

• Mahama urges churches
FORMER President John Dramani Mahama has underscored the need for churches to scale up skills training for the youth to enable them to set up small businesses to improve their living standards. "It is time for the church to scale up skills training for the youth as part of giving back to the society because not all children are endowed to continue formal education to the tertiary level" he stressed," he said.
