Terrorism in Africa: UN inaction fuels attacks — President Akufo-Addo

By Donald Ato Dapatem,
JUBILEE HOUSE

PRESIDENT Nana Addo Dankwa Akufo-Addo has said the inaction of the United National (UN) Security Council, which continues to contemplate whether and how to intervene in terrorist attacks in West Africa and the Sahel, fuels the spread of instability across Africa.

He said while it could be admitted that the political context for the Security Council's involvement was complex and the operating environment dangerous, the earlier a collective action was taken to support efforts to halt the incessant killing and annihilation of communities, the better.

President Akufo-Addo
