

Akonnor: No Hearts return on cards

Story: Peter Sarbah

FORMER Black Stars Coach, Charles Kwablan Akonnor, has distanced himself from reports of a possible return to his former club Hearts of Oak, denying a report that he has been lined up as a replacement for

• Coach C. K. Akonnor — Distances himself from the vacant job

Samuel Boadu.

Since Boadu parted ways with the Phobians, the club's management has been in the market looking for a head coach with some expatriates and Akonnor

• Continued on Page 12

Black Stars need mental toughness to succeed

— PSK Paha • Back page

• Mohammed Salisu — Black Stars

• Kudus Mohammed — Black Stars

Fans go wild as Hearts crash out of Africa • Back page

• Roberto Firmino drives a Rolls Royce Phantom

• This is Mohamed Salah's Bentley GT Continental

• Virgil Van Dijk is the owner of this Mercedes G-Class

• Jordan Henderson has spent part of his earnings on this Bentley

• Trent Alexander-Arnold went for the Mercedes S-Class

Liverpool Stars and their expensive toys

ENGLISH Premier League side, Liverpool may not have hit the right note in this season's league campaign but their players top the league of expensive cars.

These players are some of the highest-paid in England and to reflect their Stars status, they continue to spoil themselves with some of the fastest and most expensive cars on the planet.

From Range Rover Sport, Rolls Royce Phantom, Aston

Martin, Mercedes Benz G-Class to Bentley Continental GT, the list is endless when it comes to their choice of cars.

The price tag on these cars is something the ordinary man would only dream of but will never be able to afford.

For instance, it will set you back a whopping £160,000 if you want to drive Mohamed Salah's Bentley Continental GT, while anyone who wants to drive a similar car as Jordan Henderson must cough up £106,000 for his Audi RS7.

• The collection of Thiago Alcantara's cars includes this MG ZS EV

• Andy Robertson drives a Range Rover Sport

